

AGRIPOWER RIGHT ON TRACK

With their continued success in the sportsturf and construction industries, Agripower Contractors are proud to announce their latest contract - Merchant Taylors Independent Boys School in Middlesex.

Agripower, based in Buckinghamshire, are one of the UK's leading sportsturf contractors and were selected to carry out the works against stiff competition from other companies.

The project consists of the construction of a 6 lane artificial running track, high jump and long jump facilities, 1st 15 rugby pitch, primary and secondary drainage systems, two full specification cricket squares, irrigation system and major earthwork re-modelling.

Work on site commenced in early April and is due to be completed within an 18 week programme.

The new project, which has been designed by Sportsturf Consulting will maximise and enhance the School's already great tradition of excellence in games and sport and forms part of a much larger programme of other building and development projects. Many former pupils have won international honours while at the School or later as members of the OMT Club and Agripower hope that with the help of their specialist and in-house team of experts that this will continue.

Agripower was formed in 1964, undertaking most aspects of agricultural contracting work. It was during this stage of the Company's development and expansion that the importance of land drainage was realised. From 1968, they have specialised in all aspects of land drainage and since 1978 they have become well established within the sports turf industry, concentrating on the design, construction, drainage and maintenance of all sports and amenity areas. FSA
